Radiant Systems Forms Partnership with RBS Lynk as Preferred Payment Processor

Strategic partnership provides key back-end for the Aloha eCard product

Atlanta, GA – July 11, 2005 – RBS Lynk today announced it has been selected as the preferred payment processor for Radiant Systems Inc.'s (NASDAQ: RADS) hospitality division Aloha suite of point-of-sale (POS) applications for restaurant operators. The alliance between Radiant and RBS Lynk provides an automated clearinghouse (ACH) component to the already successful Aloha eCard.

RBS Lynk has developed fully-integrated processing software to enable turn-key implementation of credit, debit, ACH and gift card processing with the Aloha suite of POS applications. Restaurant operators will benefit from extremely fast setup, authorization and processing. Additionally, the end-to-end solution will create fewer points of contact in managing their overall technology solution.

"Restaurant operators continue to express to us the importance of our company providing as many beneficial technology applications for them as possible," said Andy Heyman, president of the Radiant Systems Hospitality Division. "Our partnership with RBS Lynk will help restaurants reduce costs and improve the guest experience of more than five million consumers who use an Aloha gift card."

The Aloha suite of POS applications is among the leading restaurant payment systems with more than 100 resellers and more than 30,000 installed sites worldwide. Radiant Systems' comprehensive suite of award-winning Aloha solutions includes Aloha TableService/QuickService, Aloha Enterprise.com, Aloha eCard and Aloha eFrequency. The Aloha product suite has won industry acclaim, winning both a U.S. Microsoft Retail Application Developer's Award and a European Microsoft RAD Award.

"We are dedicated to working together with Radiant to win more restaurant business by enriching the Aloha POS platform with additional integrated payment services such as ACH," said Nerino Mayer, RBS Lynk's vice president of Indirect Sales. "The result of our collaboration will enable restaurant operations to receive the most advanced payment systems regardless of the size of their business, number of locations or type of ownership. Restaurants will benefit from fast, secure transaction processing that is very simple to implement with their existing Aloha POS equipment."
